This document was prepared electronically and does not constitute legal advice. California law requires this Will to be signed by the Testator in the presence of at least two witnesses, who must also be present together at the time of signing and who must sign the Will themselves. Because an improperly executed Will may be found entirely invalid, and because estate planning needs vary significantly by individual circumstances, it is strongly recommended that this document be reviewed by a licensed California estate planning attorney before signing, and that you follow all applicable execution and witnessing requirements carefully.
